London-based jazz duo Sax & Honey will perform twice at the Woollaston Nelson Jazz & Blues Festival. Husband and wife duo Andrea and Lynden Blades first performed together in New Zealand 10 years ago when Londoner Lynden met New Zealander Andrea at a Christchurch jazz club.

Saxophonist Lynden has had a varied and eclectic musical career that has taken him from London to Bangkok to Melbourne. He studied jazz at London's City Lit and Brunel University and has performed professionally with a multitude of London-based jazz, soul, blues and ska bands.

New Zealander Andrea has performed professionally in the UK since emigrating in June 2000. Whilst in New Zealand, she established a respected reputation in the South Island jazz scene including featuring in a tribute to Ella Fitzgerald at the Christchurch Jazz Festival and performing a concert series of Harry Warren and Jimmy Van Heusen standards with jazz pianist Doug Caldwell.
